Books

Catherine Rayne 'Augustus and his smile'

Oliver Jeffers 'The Great Paper Caper'

Challenge:

To create a video and class book about tigers, animals and changes in the world around us.

2021

Spring term 1 (6 Weeks)

Writing/Mark making

- Making maps of the journey Augustus takes in the pursuit of happiness.
- Create a message centre where the children can write and post notes, cards and letters to Augustus or their own friends and family to cheer them up and reassure them.
- Visit local places that may inspire the children's own mark making e.g. welly walk signs, maps, leaflets

Phonics – 'Special friends' set 2 sounds e.g. ay, ee, igh, ow, oo, oo

Expressive Arts & Design

- Make puppets of Augustus and the animals he meets to aid retellings. Encourage children, by playing alongside them, to build stories around small world animals on journeys or in danger. Encourage the children to record their adventures in self made books, on story maps or as graphic texts.
- Investigate and emulate the artwork of Catherine Rayner, her choice of materials and techniques such as painting and silk screen. The children could visit her website for further insights: <http://www.catherinerayner.co.uk/>.

Understanding the World

Create a small world of the area Siberian tigers inhabit: Eastern Russia's birch forests, China and North Korea. Research these geographical locations

Create a range of small world settings and maps to compare and house the toy tigers.

Investigate puddles, ice, weather changes

Children can help create and play in role-play areas linked to Augustus, such as: - A travel and tourism office - A conservation park office - A zoo /safari park or vets
